GLBTQ Online High School receives $500,000 In-Kind Donation from FYI Online

Christopher Gentile, CEO of FYI Online agreed to provide GLBTQ Online High School with student access to all 78 of its online high school courses free of charge for 2 years; a donation valued at more than one-half million dollars. "I am pleased to be able to give back to the GLBT community in this significant way," said Dr. Gentile. "This is an important initiative, and I'm glad that Mr. Glick and his team are launching a school sensitive to the needs of GLBT youth. Together, we will help a lot of young people worldwide." Dr. Gentile will also be joining the school's Advisory Board.

"This donation represents a huge leap forward toward the launch of our school in the fall," said Dave Glick, Executive Director. "We are grateful to Dr. Gentile for his generosity and look forward to working with him and his company for many years. Online learning is an ever-changing field, and we are confident that the visionaries at FYI Online will be able to keep us at the leading edge of virtual schooling."

Unlike other forms of online curriculum on the market, FYI Online courses are designed with today's web-savvy students in mind. By combining an engaging interface, stylish Web 2.0 collaborative tools and sound research-based instructional design, FYI delivers the unparalleled learning experiences that students demand these days.

GLBTQ Online High School will use these courses as the core of its college-prep curriculum and academic community. "We are striving to provide not just a safe place for GLBTQ teens, but also a high-quality academic community for students worldwide. The FYI Online courses share our global perspective."

About GLBTQ Online High School

GLBTQ Online High School will be launched in the fall of 2009 to provide a safe and welcoming educational community for students who are gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender or questioning their sexual orientation. The school will provide a private high quality, comprehensive college-preparatory online high school experience using the best technology and techniques of distance education. The private, non-profit, tuition-based high school will serve students grades 9-12.

The GLBTQ Online High School will allow students to progress and excel academically without concern about a negative climate. In addition to highly qualified teachers and a college-preparatory curriculum, the school will provide student support services, a parent support community, and social opportunities that will network students and families across national and international boundaries.

About FYI Online

FYI Online develops and licenses complete online courses for K12 and higher education institutions, designing programs that promote student success through collaboration, creativity and critical thinking.

Today's millennial generation students are used to operating in a constantly evolving and increasingly collaborative web-based world. Anything that fails to match the visually stimulating and socially interactive experience fails to hold their attention and interest. FYI Online brings the excitement of today's web to academia by integrating sound online educational approaches and quality content with advanced Web 2.0 features and hip, young designs. Students no longer need to be stuck in the dull, online textbook-like learning experience of typical virtual courses. With FYI Online, students can engage in an online experience that will excite them and motivate them to learn.
